Nutritional Aspects of Disease Affecting the Skeleton

Christine Rodda

Essay titles

1. Discuss developmental aspects of vitamin D metabolism from conception to senescence, taking into consideration specific differences during ages and stages across the human lifespan.

2. Outline public-health measures that could be developed within an urban environment to optimise skeletal health and prevent falls and fractures in elderly people who live independently.